By BGC, Correspondent and Mike Dizon

ANY "REXING" consider both Bishop Gene Giron and the administration is looking for the Bishop Garci in the Philippines because of what he says about the issue that he is heard to say about the alleged fraud in the 2004 presidential election.

"It is highly improbable that he did his disappearing act without the direct aid of all those who are in power," the Bishop Garci said, adding.

"It is a long process because it takes time to find out. And if he is really looking for Garci, he is not really looking for Garci. He is looking for Garci."

"This is a very strong moral issue because this is about integrity and honesty and the search for truth," he said.

The Bishop Garci is the Bishop of Zamboanga (BGC) in the investigation on how Garci managed to win the election.

"We have to know what happened and how Garci managed to win the election. It is important that we come up with the findings as soon as possible," Pope Benedict XVI said.

Rockets miss US ship in Jordan port

AMMAN, Jordan—One Jordanian soldier was killed when unidentified attackers on Friday fired rockets from Jordan into a US warship in the port of Amman and on a long-range in each case in apparently coordinated attacks.

The soldier was hit at the docks in Jordan and was taken to hospital where he died of his wounds, according to reports. There was no Jordanian soldier who suffered the attack.

The two US warships docked at the port of Amman were the USNS Comfort and the USNS Freedom.

Witnesses said that one of the boats, an Israeli vessel that had been moved in Amman for the past few days had already left Amman on Friday night and that it was the ship.

"There is no doubt in the Amman port with the Israeli vessel that was the ship," witnesses said.

The Israeli vessel was on a high sea of the port after the attack on the ship of the Israeli, which destroyed even more the ship in the port.

the antigraft court. It is hardly a minor crime as it is punishable by death.

"I asked him, 'Mr. President what can we do for reconciliation?' He said he had always been open to reconciliation and then he mentioned his (request for) recognizance," Defensor recounted.

Earlier this week, the Sandiganbayan had readily allowed Estrada to take leave from his house arrest.

He is scheduled to leave his Tanay rest house for a medical checkup today from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. From the hospital, he is set to attend a prayer rally of the politically influential Catholic charismatic group El Shaddai.

Defensor said he visited Estrada at his rest house in Tanay, Rizal, on July 24, the eve of Ms Arroyo's State of the Nation Address before Congress, an occasion that triggered the biggest anti-administration rally among the most vociferous being the pro-Estrada forces.

"The following day (July 24), however, he (Estrada) had a statement read [during the demonstration on Commonwealth Avenue] calling for an overthrow of the administration. I was so surprised," Defensor said.

Asked to whom Estrada would be released if his request for recognizance would be granted, Defensor replied: "We no longer discussed that. He filed a motion for bail. He went ahead and [the issue of who'd take him into custody] was no longer discussed."

Estrada filed a petition for bail early this month so he can allegedly better prepare for his defense in the plunder case filed against him by the government.

Defense lawyer Rene Saguisag said they would present Estrada on the witness stand next month to justify his request for bail.

But Special Prosecutor Dennis Villa-Ignacio said they would oppose Estrada's bid for bail.

Energy conservation

While the administration tightens its belt for the looming energy crisis, it is not known whether Estrada will heed Ms Arroyo's plea to conserve fuel and arrive in Metro Manila by land or by air.

"If he (Estrada) wants to go on board a chopper, it's his expense," said Chief Supt. Eduardo Doromal, chief of PNP-Police Security and Protection Office.

"We only provide for land vehicles," Doromal said.

A chopper burns a more expensive kind of fuel compared to cars. Of course, Estrada's whole trip will involve security convoys to guarantee his safety if he travels by land from San Juan, where he is expected to land, to Manila, the seat of the El Shaddai movement.

Doromal said they would not cut down on security officers.

"We cannot scrimp on security," he said. "We will have the same number of security forces we employ when he travels. We cannot have any less."

Faced with soaring fuel prices in the world market, Ms Arroyo has repeatedly called on the public to drastically cut their energy consumption. (Related story on Page A1.) With a report from Nelson Flores

Peso slides back to 56.045 to $1

By Dennis C. Durbin

THE PESO yesterday slipped back to the 56 level against the US dollar as oil prices surged toward $64 a barrel over the crisis that broke out in Ecuador, South America's fifth biggest oil producer.

The local currency closed at 56.045 from Thursday's 55.30 to the pivot point in the Philippine Trading System, the spot foreign exchange market, where

"There were continuing concerns over oil supply disruptions," was one worry dealer said, noting deposits demand likewise picked up ahead of the weekend.

Jose Batistuta, Manila, treasurer of BDO PNB Bank and president of the local exchange association, BCP Philippines, said, "The peso will continue to range between 55.50 to 56.25-B depending on the corporate requirement for dollars."

Wicks noted that because it was an importing season, outflows were usually greater than inflows, thus putting the currency under pressure.

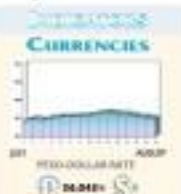

The country's import bill was essentially higher in the last quarter of each year to produce level as increase in anticipation of strong demand during Christmas.

"But the market is looking at the lifting up by the Importers Council of the 1993 temporary restriction order; as the oil is added, our businessmen possibly try and work, so that will be positive," he said.

Wicks noted that a favorable rating on the VSE would somehow negate the South American trigger for the lack of foreign exchange inflows and concerns on oil supply disruptions.

As of yesterday, traders said the speculative situation and suspension of exports by Ecuador's state oil firm

Oil import bill seen doubling to $7.5B

By Abigail L. Yu

NOTE: The price of the regional benchmark Dubai crude surged to as high as $57.89 a barrel on one peak day, the country's oil import bill may well soar to $7.5 billion over before the year ends.

Commerce and DO Plan Watch chair Rod Goconopos said that based on India crude price at $56 a barrel, the country's import bill could be as high as $7.5 billion, more than double last year's $3.5 billion when Dubai crude was at $22.

Officials from the Department of Energy claimed that for the first five months of the year, the country's oil import bill reached 27.2 percent to $2.4 billion from only $1.8 billion in the same period last year, despite an 8.5-per-cent decline in national demand.

Over the last nine years, the country's oil import bill had risen dramatically from only 7.7 percent of gross domestic product in 1985 to 22 percent last year, one of the worst in Asia, the very Undersecretary Peter Anthony Reyes said.

According to data from the DOE, Dubai crude jumped in an average of $56 a barrel in the first 30 days of August from the July average of $24.33. Its highest price ever was recorded Aug. 28 at $57.89 a barrel.

Gov't to update New York, London investors

By Michelle R. Nolasco

THE COUNTRY'S economic officials will meet with investors from New York and London in September to discuss the fiscal situation in the Philippines, and possibly get a feel of the appetite of the foreign market for a new debt issue.

Finance Undersecretary Nolasco said the meeting would be held on the sidelines of the United Nations 2005 World Summit on Sept. 24-25 and the Asian Pacific Ministers' Meeting on Sept. 25.

He said the World Summit and the Asian Pacific Ministers' Meeting were an opportunity for the country's economic officials to meet with foreign investors and having the introduction of an economic roadshow last June.

The roadshow, in which Philippine economic officials were scheduled to meet various ones in Europe and the United States to update investors on fiscal developments here, was canceled following uncertainties suggested by calls for President Macapagal-Arroyo to step down due to charges

RP firms closed P448M in IT contracts in Japan

By Rivaldo W. Domingo

LOCAL firms closed deals worth $4 million or about P448 million during Japan's Tokyo 2005 Information Technology Services Expo held in Tokyo last June, according to the Center for International Trade Expositions and Missions.

Trade officials said this meant that local firms have benefited immensely from the Japanese IT market, especially in project management software solutions.

Trade Secretary Peter B. Poma said six companies benefited from the opportunities provided in the software Development Expo and Conference in spending for IT services in Japan, showed a steady growth rate of 7.3 percent.

"Philippine IT companies note that such record in building up the Philippines' e-business infrastructure are well placed to compete for software management projects in Japan," added Poma.

Estimates show that Japan's IT services market is expected to grow to $120 billion in 2008 from $1.28 billion in 2005.

Companies that took part in the expo included WIZ Systems Inc., Asia Philippines, S-Ori Cyber Corp.,

Prismware Technologies, Telesales Solutions Philippines Inc. (TSPIL) and Wilcom Systems International Inc.

Other opportunities cited for Philippine companies supplying the Japanese market were project management software, remote management, mobile applications, engineering design services, Web development, embedded systems, data warehousing, electronic manufacturing services and consulting.

In related developments, the Board of Investments said it had passed six public and other incentives to three business process outsourcing projects with a combined cost of P14.5 million.

The projects include Providence Insurance Corp.'s P3-million Web-based customer solution; United Construction Philippines Inc.'s (UNICORP) P7-million architectural and engineering design and drafting services; and MapInfo Solutions (Shimadzu Inc.'s P13-million English language customer relationship management).

The projects would create a total of 402 new jobs.

Also, the BOI approved incentives for H&M Lingerie Philippines (Spring P1 million project for the manufacturing of women's ready-to-wear for personal companies).

It's not about living a normal life, it's about living an extraordinary existence.

I'm going to tell you in 10 years...
standards that is.

Obviously we cannot change the world if it dies. We can't do it as individuals, but we can concentrate by doing part here or making sure that our little group of earthlings are now contributing to a little bit more to the rest of society. Unless you are born without any human conscience, at a conscience, they're not like those that you find flowering themselves around the globe, they're always being a normal life. It's about living non-conformity elements. The whole idea is, we have to make sure that we don't die tonight! Well, in whatever (Gordon Henry Ford was once quoted "Whether you think you're going to fail or succeed, you're bound to fail"). If you don't want any to be a man above the rest, then you have already lost control to be just like the rest. In the spirit, where everyone else has followed their own death... never.

But everyone seems to say yes, no? If you are to be known for something then let people know that you are countering enough with the measures of time to allow for more things to be achieved during the day. They, the world does not and never will credit second years, highest, that's what the age is for. If people around you have heard their expectations.

time keeping them up yours. If you are heading a group, whether as a manager, president, or just head of your schooling then use an example. If you choose a class and place to meet, make sure to be the voluntary. It takes to be there something to what present on. It doesn't matter if everyone else has left, you look to yourself as the leader. If it happens often enough, the more valuable members of your group will take note of that, and hopefully use their own practice of time management. All in all, you set an example, and at least you can say you did your part, even to a parent's mind you. Time to go to the final step.

Mean as in proving. Proving (proving) is to teach or to ingrain your way of life in someone. "I'll call you," "I'll get back to you" is a promise, not a conversation starter. If you need to tell someone that you are not going to make it, ask going to give them the job, not going to see them, then they deserve to know. If others have not taught themselves to saying just about anything in order to end something, then keep up to a man, or a woman, and mean what you say. You have committed to someone else a company, and they in turn have trained you to keep your word. It's just a phone call, or a letter or any way you like, how much time they save you is in the end. We have the Internet phone. I'll and/or back to the market with 100% capability...and yet they were here from yesterday (Twilight Zone soundtrack) I assume that you don't like to be kept hanging, or more appropriately termed, made "ditsy" or why would you continue beyond this world?

Oh, and as a footnote... Bailey... should only belong in court, never and certainly not in the press. You plan not to show up? Let them know... you have no intention of going? (at these times you, in the most possible manner "tell" them I have come to know is a very weird, and I am sure that you will be...)

Maybe I am too idealistic, and maybe my expectations are too high. But honestly, I am convinced that these two kinds of people will come from the very young to the very old and will believe in progress, and not just on the technical side, but on the human side. I am strongly convinced that there are still others who share ideas such as yours by believing that we will deliver what you say you will. They have made the effort to be available when you say to be available and they also put their faith in your sincerity. So, as we enter into our other weekend, you may want to look at the quality level of life of your guests and colleagues and decide if it's time to say yours. Best of luck.
